Praying for the Spiritual

Have you ever noticed how many times the apostle Paul includes prayers in his letters to Christians around the world? Typically, we will find a prayer within the first few sentences, another toward the end, and several more sprinkled throughout. Prayer was obviously a fundamental part of Paul's life as a Christian.

What is striking to me is the distinctly spiritual nature of Paul's prayers. For instance, in Colossians 1:9-13, Paul prays that the Colossians will be filled with the knowledge of God's will, live a life worthy of the Lord, bear fruit in every good work, grow in the knowledge of God, be strengthened with His power, have great endurance and patience, and give thanks to the Father. All of these requests have to do with the increase of spiritual qualities in their lives.

When I look at my own prayers in comparison, I see a significant difference. My prayers for others tend to have a stronger emphasis on physical and emotional needs, such as dealing with illness and death. While it is important to pray for these more tangible matters, it is crucial that we also pray fervently and specifically for spiritual concerns. We must not forget Paul's reminder in Ephesians 6:12 that "…our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against…the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms." Satan is alive and actively working in our world. None of us can be victorious in the spiritual realm without the power of the Lord within us.

So let us, like Paul, commit to praying for the spiritual well-being of everyone in the Lord.
